

Repair or Replace your Toilet Checklist

We understand you prefer not to repair or replace your toilet. We also understand it takes a lot of time and effort to crawl through Google looking for answers. So, we thought we'd just put them here. Here's your handy dandy checklist for toilet signs and symptoms. Ask yourself the following questions:

- Is your toilet making gurgling or running noises?
- Does your toilet sometimes take an unusually long time to flush?
- Have you noticed your toilet seems fuller than usual?
- Does your toilet randomly start running for no reason?
- Does your toilet seem to flush for way too long?
- Does the handle on your toilet not go back up all the way?
- Are there cracks at the base of your toilet?
- Is water pooling around the base of your toilet?
- If you put dye in your toilet bowl, does it disappear a few hours or minutes later without flushing?
- If you can't tell whether or not you have a crack and you put dye and your toilet bowl, does it appear around the base of your toilet?
- Does your toilet wobble on its base?
- Is your toilet more than a decade old?

If you answered yes to any of the above questions, it's time to get help. Whether you have a small leak or a defunct toilet, you need plumbing assistance. Waiting will only make the problem worse.
